Cambodia: Angkor Wat & Siem Reap

Siem Reap — 3-Day / 2-Night Package

Best time to go: November–February (dry, cooler season) • Tentative Dates: Arrive February 22, Depart February 24

Trip Overview

A compact, temple-focused stay built around Angkor, the largest religious monument complex in the world: Ta Prohm's tree-swallowed ruins, sunrise at Angkor Wat, the smiling stone faces of the Bayon, and the pink sandstone carvings of Banteay Srei, with a light jungle walk to the River of a Thousand Lingas at Kbal Spean. Arrive from Ho Chi Minh City (SGN, a direct flight of about an hour) and fly on to Bangkok at the end. Local tuk-tuks keep the cost low, and a licensed Angkor guide joins for the main temple day. Best time to go — November–February: the dry, cooler season, with clear sunrises and comfortable temple walking; a February 22 arrival is still within this window, though afternoons are already warm (often 32–34°C), so the schedule puts the big walks in the morning. Mid-March–May is hot (often 35–40°C), and June–October brings green landscapes and fewer crowds but afternoon rain and muddier trails.

Day-by-Day Itinerary

Day 1 (Feb 22) — Arrive Siem Reap, Ta Prohm & Apsara Dance Dinner

Arrive by late morning; ~2:30–5:30 PM at Ta Prohm and the Old Market, then dinner

- Airport pickup by tuk-tuk (or your driver) and transfer to your hotel; lunch near the Old Market
- Ta Prohm in the soft afternoon light — the jungle-swallowed 'Tomb Raider' temple, with giant silk-cotton tree roots wrapped around the stonework
- Stroll through Psar Chas (the Old Market) and the Pub Street area at an easy pace
- Welcome dinner with a traditional Apsara dance performance
- Overnight: Siem Reap

Meals: (B) (L) (D)

Day 2 (Feb 23) — Sunrise at Angkor Wat, Angkor Thom & the Bayon

~5:00–11:30 AM at Angkor Wat and Angkor Thom, then a free, restful afternoon

- Leave the hotel about 5:00 AM for sunrise over Angkor Wat — sunrise is around 6:00–6:20 AM in the dry season; shoulders and knees must be covered at the temple
- Explore Angkor Wat's galleries of carved bas-reliefs and its central towers with your licensed guide
- Angkor Thom and the Bayon — over 200 giant smiling stone faces, best in the soft morning light
- Return to the hotel for lunch and a rest during the hottest hours; free late afternoon for a swim, a massage or the markets
- Farewell dinner in Siem Reap
- Overnight: Siem Reap

Meals: (B) (L) (D)

Day 3 (Feb 24) — Banteay Srei, Kbal Spean & Fly to Bangkok

 ~7:30 AM departure; ~1 hour driving each way to Banteay Srei, ~2.5–3 hours of touring and walking, then an evening flight (~1h20)

- Banteay Srei — the 'Citadel of Women', famous for its delicate pink sandstone carvings, about an hour north of town
- Kbal Spean — a light jungle walk (about 1.5 km uphill, ~30–45 minutes each way) to the 'River of a Thousand Lingas', with carvings in the riverbed and a small waterfall at the end; included in your Angkor Pass
- Lunch near the temples, back in town by about 1:30 PM
- Transfer to Siem Reap–Angkor International Airport for an evening flight to Bangkok — package concludes
- Please book the flight for about 5:00 PM or later to keep a comfortable buffer after the Kbal Spean walk

Meals: (B) (L) (D)

(B) Breakfast · (L) Lunch · (D) Dinner — included where highlighted

Feature Hotels

Representative properties at each star tier (comparable alternatives used if unavailable). A boutique villa or Khmer-style homestay option is also available, comparable in quality to the 3-Star tier but often lower in cost — ask to substitute it in at the price shown for 3-Star. All hotels are in or near central Siem Reap, a short ride from the Angkor ticket gate.

Tier	Siem Reap (2 nights)	Style
Boutique Airbnb/Homestay	Boutique villa or Khmer-style homestay — comparable to 3-Star, often priced below it	Quiet residential streets near the Old Market
2-Star	Boutique guesthouse near Pub Street	Simple, clean, central
3-Star	Angkor Village Resort	Khmer-style wooden pavilions in a garden
4-Star	Shinta Mani Angkor / Belmond La Résidence d'Angkor	Luxury boutique resorts with pools and spas

Transportation

- Local tuk-tuk, one for every 2–3 guests: about $105 per tuk-tuk for the whole trip (airport transfers both ways, Ta Prohm and the Old Market on Day 1, the Angkor day on Day 2, and the longer Banteay Srei/Kbal Spean run on Day 3)
- Angkor has no public bus, so tuk-tuks are the standard local way to reach the temples; a private SUV, minivan or full-size van with an English-speaking driver can be substituted on request at a higher price
- Licensed Angkor guide — Day 2 only: ~$50 per group. The temples are far richer with a guide, but Days 1 and 3 run on the tuk-tuk driver alone
- Fly into Siem Reap from Ho Chi Minh City (SGN, direct, ~1 hour) and out to Bangkok (direct, ~1h20)

What's Included

- 2 nights in Siem Reap, with breakfast daily
- Lunch on all three days; welcome dinner (Day 1) and farewell dinner (Day 2)
- Tuk-tuk transport for all transfers and sightseeing, sized to your group
- Licensed Angkor guide on Day 2 and the 3-day Angkor Pass ($62), which covers all three temple days

Not included: flights to and from Siem Reap, Cambodia e-visa (~$30–36, nationality-dependent), other meals, alcohol, gratuities, hotel taxes/resort fees, and travel insurance.

Estimated airfare: Ho Chi Minh City to Siem Reap roughly $80–200 one-way (direct, ~1 hour), and Siem Reap to Bangkok roughly $60–200 one-way (direct, ~1h20); fares depend on booking date and season.

Quick Comparison: This Package vs. a Saigon Agency Coach Tour

How this private 3-day package compares with a typical group tour from an agency in Saigon (a 4-day/3-night coach tour via Phnom Penh, leaving Feb 21 and flying out of Siem Reap to Bangkok on Feb 24 instead of riding back).

	This Package (3-Star, Arrive Feb 22)	Saigon Agency Coach Tour (Leave Feb 21)
Nights	2 in Siem Reap	3 (1 Phnom Penh, 2 Siem Reap)
Time at Angkor	About 2½ days: Ta Prohm, Angkor Wat sunrise, Bayon, Banteay Srei and Kbal Spean	About 1 day, plus Phnom Penh sightseeing and ~10–12 hours on the road
Transport and pace	Small group by tuk-tuk, flexible, sunrise start	Shared 45-seat coach, fixed schedule and shopping stops
Guide	English-speaking licensed Angkor guide on Day 2	Vietnamese-speaking tour leader; English needs a private quote (est. $40–70/day per group)
Hotels	2, 3 or 4-Star of your choice	3–4 Star set by the agency
Price per person, double	$623 (2 guests) to $529 (8 guests)	About $235–255 (5.99–6.5 million VND), plus ~$35 visa and ~$12 tips
Single room	+$45	+$49–59
Flights (est.)	Ho Chi Minh City → Siem Reap $80–200, Siem Reap → Bangkok $60–200	Siem Reap → Bangkok $60–200 only (coach replaces the first flight)
Estimated total per person, double	About $763–$1,023 for 2 guests, with flights	About $340–500, with the flight to Bangkok and visa/tips

Agency figures come from published 4-day Saigon coach tour listings and are estimates; a one-way (no return coach) discount is not guaranteed, and the English-guide figure is an estimate. The agency tour is cheaper but trades about a day and a half at Angkor, and the 5:00 AM sunrise, for the road.

Rate Notes

- The 3-day Angkor Pass ($62, valid for 10 days) is included and covers Ta Prohm, Angkor Wat, Angkor Thom, Banteay Srei and Kbal Spean across all three days.
- Day 3 flies out the same evening — book the Bangkok flight for about 5:00 PM or later. If your next stop is a Bangkok-based itinerary, expect to land in the evening rather than the afternoon.
- Angkor Wat sunrise means a 5:00 AM start on Day 2 — the free afternoon is built in on purpose, since temple walking is hot from late morning, even in the dry season.
- Dress code at all temples: shoulders and knees covered. A light scarf or long shirt is easy to carry.
- Kbal Spean is a short but uphill jungle walk on uneven ground; the river carvings and small waterfall are at their best in the dry season, and the trail is slippery after heavy rain.
- Tuk-tuks and the Angkor guide are costed separately on purpose: the tuk-tuk is a flat per-vehicle cost for the trip, while the guide applies only on Day 2.
- Rates are per person, in USD, before local taxes. Hotel rates and flight fares are estimates and vary by date. Quote valid for 1 week; subject to availability at time of booking.

Phare, the Cambodian Circus	A nightly acrobatics, music and storytelling show by a social-enterprise troupe — a genuine highlight of Siem Reap	Evening add on Day 1 in place of the Apsara dinner, or on Day 2
